

CULTURE AND COMMUNITY LAW

Education through the Arts

Four very diverse groups will come together for an evening of cultural sharing; art installation and community based performance. This performance, in collaboration with its Knoxville American Festival Project partner, the University of Tennessee's law school, will present a unique mix of community participants, artists, and law students, all coming together to share their semester's projects. The event, Carpetbag Theatre's, second annual Cultural and Community Law Project is at Knoxville College, (KC) Colston Performing Arts

- Excerpts from a mock Hip-Hop trial, performed by Theatre Renaissance for Youth
- "Hell or high Water" an original sketch from women in Families First programs
- The I.D.E.A.* Inclusion Project both dance and art installation celebrating diversity of all children
- "You, your car and the law" an easy to use manual for non-English speaking immigrants.

JOIN US!!

Tuesday, November 20th
6:00PM in the
Colston Performing Arts building,
Knoxville College.

Contact: Ajeet Khalsa, coordinator 524-6625

Presented by the Carpetbag Theatre's, Knoxville American Festival Project, 2001