“JUSTICE IN APPALACHIA”

Now & Then invites submissions related to the theme of “Justice in Appalachia” for our Fall/Winter 2016 issue, which will appear in December. We publish articles, profiles, fiction, new research, creative nonfiction, poetry, photography and other visual art, and encourage submissions from all parts of the region on a diversity of topics.

Our goal is to explore the varied landscape of justice and to demonstrate how aspects of justice in Appalachia—economic, racial/ethnic, environmental, LGBT, gender-related, prison issues and more—interrelate.

The magazine’s audience includes general readers with an interest in Appalachia as well as students and academicians.

The final submission deadline is August 28, but we encourage contributors to submit material by July 1 if possible.

Guidelines for writers, poets and photographers are available online at www.etsu.edu/cass/nowandthen/
