Dear Friends of the College of Public Health:

What do a monkey mask, a snow dog, and a Super Bowl party have in common? For that matter, what do a malnutrition study in Guatemala, a study of trends in doctoral public health education, and some exciting job announcements have in common?

They, along with many other items of interest are among the many highlights of the College of Public Health Facebook Page.

Interest in the College Facebook page has grown rapidly. As of today, 504 people “liked” the college page, and were following such highlights as “Alumni Monday,” (average 324 hits per week) which highlights the current status of a college alumni, “Throwback Thursday” (average 551 hits per week) which challenges followers to identify a photograph of a younger faculty or staff member, as well as photo albums (average 848 hits per week). To date, the greatest number of visits was associated with the College Halloween competition (4,676 hits). Over the past academic year, the number of people who “like” the College on Facebook increased from 312 to 504. Currently, these fans come from 25 countries and 9 States and, within Tennessee, from 23 different cities.

If you would like to keep up with the College, I would encourage you, too, to follow us on Facebook, and, of course, to periodically visit the News and Events Section of the website:

http://www.etsu.edu/cph/featured_news.aspx

Hopefully, you will like what you see!

Best wishes,

Randy

PS A heart-felt “thank you” to Janet Stork and Dara Young who are the folks who make our Facebook happen.