Dr. Madison Powers, D.Phil., J.D.

“Feeding the World in 2050: Food, Fairness, and Global Markets”

Millennium Centre,
2nd Floor Ballroom
7:00 p.m.

Livestream: http://elearning.etsu.edu/live/publichealth.htm

Dr. Powers is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy and a Senior Research Scholar in the Kennedy Institute of Ethics, Georgetown University. He has had a long-standing interest in social justice and public health and is the co-author of a recent book, Social Justice: The Moral Foundations of Public Health and Health Care Policy.

Currently, his research is focused on the combined challenges of production and distribution of food, energy, and water (the FEW problem).

He received a Doctorate of Philosophy (D.Phil.) from University College, Oxford, and a J.D. from the University of Tennessee. Before his career as an academic philosopher, he was a lawyer working primarily in health and environmental law.

Meet and Greet with Speaker from 6:00-6:45 p.m.

Co-Sponsored by: College of Public Health, ETSU Department of Philosophy and Humanities, and the Public Health Student Association

Individuals who have questions concerning access or who wish to request disability accommodations such as accessible seating, alternative formats for materials, or sign language interpreters should contact Disability Services at 423-439-8346 by February 1. Attempts will be made to fill late requests; however, requests made after February 1 are not guaranteed.

ACCM Accreditation: Quillen College of Medicine East Tennessee State University is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

CME Credit: Quillen College of Medicine East Tennessee State University designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.