

To request an article through Loansome Doc from PubMed:

Loansome Doc is a document ordering system developed by the National Library of Medicine. It is ideal for any healthcare professional, faculty member or resident who requires resources for ongoing research. For information on setting up a Loansome Doc account through the ETSU Medical Library, please contact loydk@etsu.edu.

Using Loansome Doc may involve fees. The pricing policy for the ETSU Medical Library can be found here: <http://www.etsu.edu/medlib/services/interlibraryloan.aspx>.

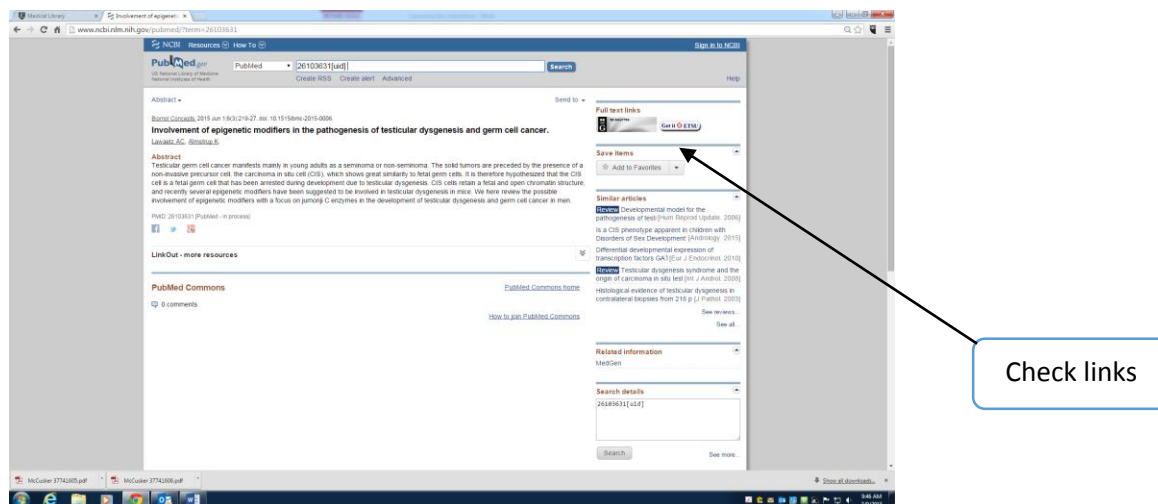

If you are a full time faculty member, fees may be covered by your department. Contact your department for more information.

1. Go to PubMed from the ETSU Medical Library portal.

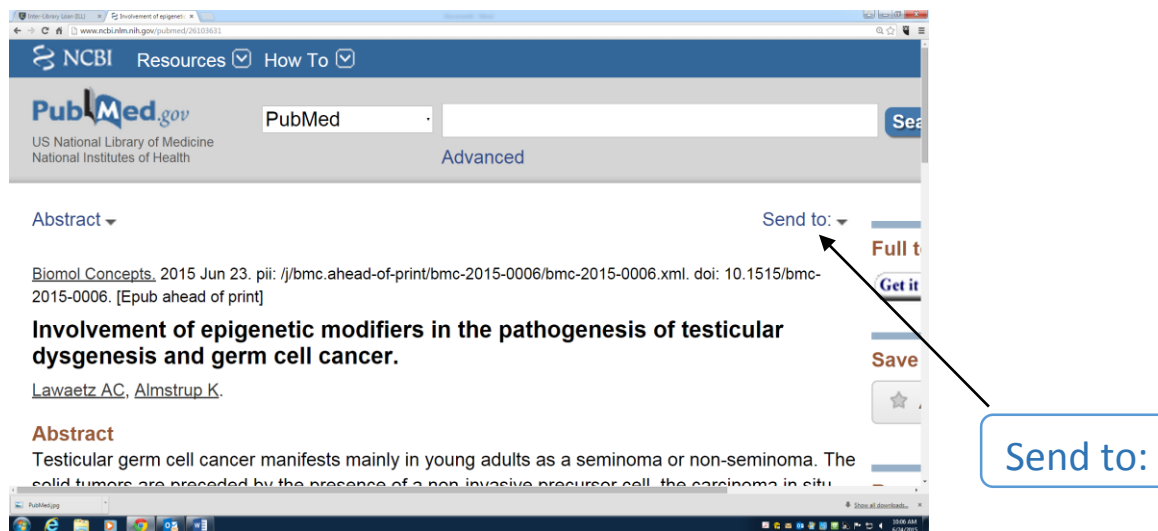

2. Check the GetIt@ETSU link and the database link on the right of the PubMed page to see if items are available through ETSU subscriptions.

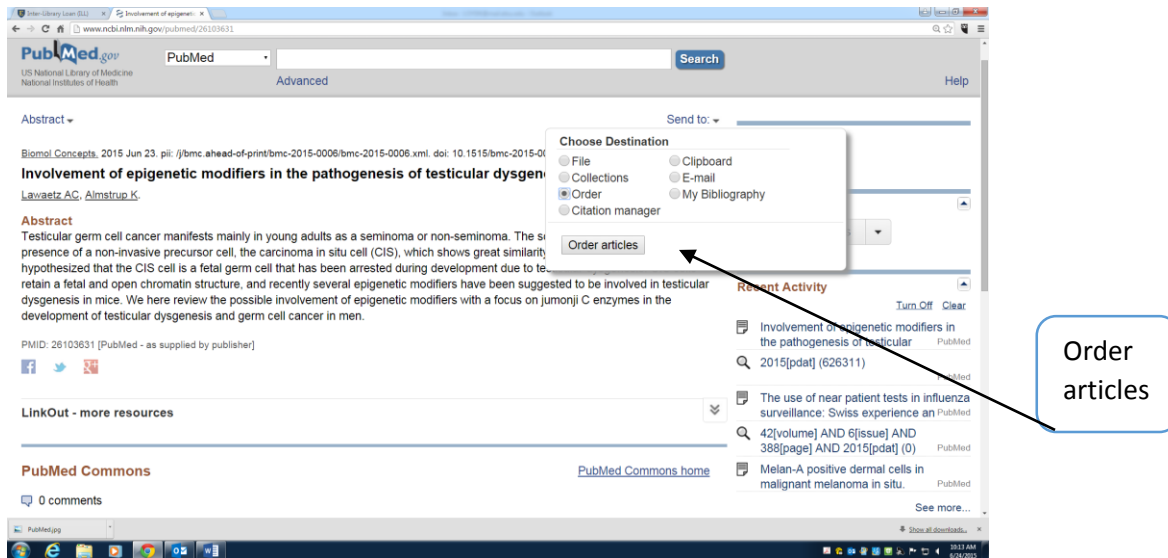

To have a library staff member help ensure that your items of interest are not already available via the library's subscriptions, please contact Quillenill@etsu.edu.

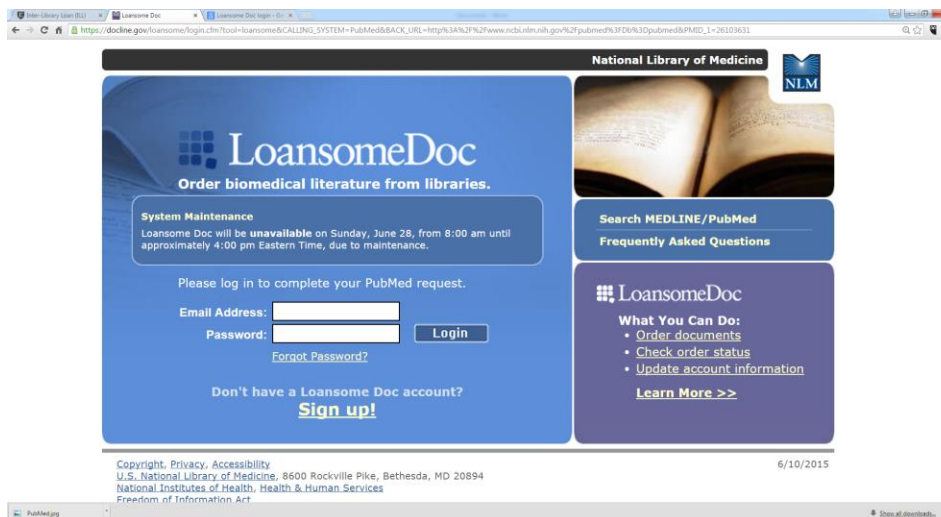

3. If the resource is unavailable, click the Send to: option in the PubMed page that contains the resource abstract.

4. From the drop-down menu choose Order and Order articles.

5. This will link you to the LoansomeDoc login page.

6. Log in to LoansomeDoc and the citation information will have migrated from PubMed into LoansomeDoc.

The screenshot shows the LoansomeDoc website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'National Library of Medicine' and 'LoansomeDoc' logos. Below this, there's a 'Place Order' section with a sub-header 'Place Order'. A message states: 'Please review your citations before proceeding to delivery instructions. Items not in your library's holdings may delay or prevent delivery of document. Refer to your library's policies for more information.' Below this, there's a 'Sort by' dropdown set to 'Title' and an 'Update' button. A status message says '1 requests being sent to: EAST TENNESSEE STATE UNIVERSITY - MEDICAL LIBRARY.' The main table has two columns: 'Citation Information (by Article Title)' and 'In HoldingsOnline Access Order'. The first row contains citation details for an article by Lawaetz AC and Almstrup K, titled 'Involvement of epigenetic modifiers in the pathogenesis of testicular dysgenesis and germ cell cancer.' The citation is from Biomol Concepts 2015 Jun 23;(). pii: /j/bmc.ahead-of-print/bmc-2015-0006/bmc-2015-0006.xml. doi: 10.1515/bmc-2015-0006 [Epub ahead of print]. The PMID is 26103631. To the right of the citation, there are three checkboxes: 'No' (with a question mark), 'No', and a checked checkbox. Below the table, there's a button labeled 'Proceed to Delivery Options' which is pointed to by an arrow from the instruction below.
