- a) Open Forum – Amy Johnson: Discusses the commonly ask questions such as: what are the expectations for classroom attendance for those who are isolated due to a positive diagnosis of COVID-19? What guidelines should faculty use for accommodations and lenience? Which is that professors should encourage you to be home when sick, provide students with opportunity to make up work, meets with students via zoom, abandon fatal attendance policies. Professors should also make sure to tell students to wear masks, ask them to ask to wear a mask. They have a range of options to consider, talk to the student, tell them the consequences if they don't wear a mask. However, they should not dismiss the classroom if one student is not wearing a mask. Lastly, include in syllabus that course might change.
