

The Center for Experiential Learning at the East Tennessee State University
Quillen College of Medicine

presents the fourth annual summer camp,

Simulated Medicine in Action

for rising high school juniors, seniors, and college freshmen

June 27- July 1 and July 11-15

This one-of-a-kind experience will allow students the opportunity to take on the role of primary healthcare provider as they care for their patients in a setting that closely mimics the emotional and physical characteristics of a hospital or clinic.

This week-long camp will emphasize the following aspects of healthcare:

Patient History	Imaging
Physical Examination	Suturing
Assessing Vital Signs	Simulated Patient Visits
Process of Diagnosis	CPR and Trauma
Phlebotomy	Critical Thinking in Medicine
Common Laboratory Tests	Provider-Patient Relationship

On the final day, students will experience simulated morning rounds, seeing standardized patients alongside attending physicians. In the afternoon, they will be responsible for running a simulated emergency department.

Come join us for this truly unique opportunity to discover the realities of what it means to actively participate in healthcare!

There is no cost to attend this workshop. Camp will run each day (M-F) from 9 am to 3 pm. Students will need to pack a lunch each day and provide their own transportation. We would be happy to answer any questions addressed to the SMIA team at our email account: simmedicalcamp@gmail.com

If you are interested in participating, please RSVP by email by June 6. Slots fill on a first come basis. The camp is offered twice this summer, each session will include 16-20 students. Current medical students, residents, physicians, and simulation lab staff members will be instructing and supervising this camp.

More details will follow via email to interested students and parents.
